

Model Text – Life in Urban Kenya Recount

I am going to tell you a little bit about my life growing up in Nairobi, Kenya.

First, I get up, I get washed and then I get changed into my school clothes.

Next, I sit down together and have breakfast with my family. Normally, we have fruit, juice, tea and coffee, but if it is cold outside then we have porridge, which I do not like!

Then, we go to school by car because it is quite far away. Sometimes, when we get to school, we line up for an assembly and we sing the national anthem.

After that, we go into the dining room to have lunch. It is incredibly noisy! Often, we pray to God before we eat to thank him for our delicious food.

Finally, we have about 4 lessons. At 4 o'clock we go on the school bus to go home. Usually, I have a lot of homework so I have to finish that first, before I can watch TV.

That is my typical school day living in Nairobi!
