

Narrative – Finding Tale

The Storm Whale

On the shores of a sandy, soft beach lived a little boy named Noi. He was a short, timid boy who lived with his six cats and his hard-working dad.

One sunny evening, Noi spotted something unusual in the distance. Carefully, he walked towards it and he could not believe his eyes! He saw an abandoned, little whale washed up on the sand. "What should he do?" he thought.

Unfortunately, the whale was sobbing so Noi decided to take him home, but the whale was very heavy. Eventually, Noi dragged the whale back to his house and put him in the bath, because he was covered in sand.

Suddenly, Noi's dad came home and Noi was nervous because he thought his dad would be angry that he brought a whale home. He shut the door to hide the whale. Just then, Noi's dad came into the bathroom and saw Noi was upset and lonely. Noi's dad was not angry. However, he said that the whale must be returned to the sea.

Noi and his dad sailed into the wild, turbulent sea. They dumped the whale back into the sea and waved goodbye. The next morning, Noi and his dad went to the top of the hill to play. In the distance, they saw the storm whale swimming happily with his family.
