Erik's Journey into the Enchanted Forest

On the edge of a pretty village, lived a schoolboy called Erik. Every day, Erik loved to gaze out of his window at the beautiful forest that was just down the road. He had never gone through the forest, as his dad had always warned him about how the forest was dangerous and scary. One day, Erik decided to do something unbelievable. He had packed a huge hiking bag, grabbed his torch and decided to head inside the forest.

Erik touched many exotic plants and trees along the way into the forest. Unfortunately, he tripped over some thick vines and badly grazed his leg. Thankfully Erik had a plaster in his bag and put it on his leg.

As Erik walked further and further, the forest was getting darker and darker. Erik was scared. He turned his torch on, but his torch flickered for a second and then turned off. Erik heard a rustling coming from a nearby bush. Erik began to shiver and shake, he was petrified!

Just then, Erik heard the sound of fluttering wings. It was a magical, tiny fairy! Erik could not believe his eyes! The fairy casted an enchanting spell on the forest and the whole forest lit up and became bright. She also fixed Erik's leg and made his torch work again.

Happily, they skipped through the forest together. Suddenly, they stopped. He saw a giant stretch of land with so many animals. It was so peaceful and Erik was full of joy. The fairy casted one more spell that made Erik go to sleep. He woke up, and he was in his bed. Was this all a dream, he thought?
